FEDERAL CONTROL OF POWER UTILITIES WOULD BE DANGEROUS

Survey Shows Suit Regulation Would Hurt Service

Washington, Sept. 19.—Completion of a nation-wide survey of state regulation of electrical utilities by the department of commerce has led to the conclusions by Secretary of Commerce Hoover that nothing would produce worse service to the public than to attempt federal control of fast growing power developments.

Confident of the ability of state utilities commissions to adequately protect the American people from aggressions of vast electrical corporations, representing billions of dollars invested capital and legally constituted monopolies, Hoover said today:

"Nothing could be a more hideous extension of centralization in the federal government than to undermine state utilities commissions and state responsibilities than federal regulation of electrical service."

Because of the extension beyond state lines, of the operations of electrical plants which in effect are conducting an interstate business, the demand for federal control has been heard in many quarters and has been proposed in congress.

These proposals led Hoover to make a close study of the situation. His experts have already reported, expressing the view that the states are "equal to the task and are doing the job well."

"Few realize the fullness the extent and the authority of regulation now in effect," Hoover declared. "There is either state or municipal regulation of electric rates in all but the two states and of service in all but five. Financial operations are controlled in a majority of states. These principles are being extended rapidly over the remainder."

Hoover's survey disclosed the gradual development of a science of regulation and understanding of drawing the fine line between the minimum rates to the consumer and such reasonable profit to the industry as will stimulate its advancement.

The nationwide average showed rates to be slightly below pre-war, in spite of 100 percent increases in wages and higher costs of fuel and supplies. This is attributed to more scientific conduct of the business. The investigation showed that more than one billion dollars a year is necessary to finance electric utilities.

Fundamental changes in expansion of the industry implies vast consolidations, intricate cross contracts, enormous commercial transactions and great security issues.

That the public has a definite right and interest in these transactions is no longer a matter of dispute, Hoover continued.

The states have conferred definite territorial monopolies in order to avoid the fabulous duplication of equipment, investment and costs to the consumer that would be required to maintain competition.

"When we deliberately clothe industry with the habiliments of a monopoly neither the industry nor the public can dispute the necessity of full control of rates, profit, service and finance by governmental regulation."

Hoover pointed out that the stage setting for the new electrical era is vastly different from the "better chapter of exploitation when the railroads went through a similar expansion. He said that the electric utilities have been under regulation from their birth and that they are now under control through practically the entire country.

"Beyond this the majority of men who dominate the industry themselves belong to a new school of public understanding as to the responsibilities of big business to the people," Hoover concluded.

"I do not agree with the conclusion that federal regulation is necessary. I can see no reason for imposition of a superior regulation merely because congress may have the power to exercise its authority under the commerce clause."

PROHIBITION LESS POPULAR IS REPORT

Washington, Sept. 19.—Prohibition is not as popular today as it was five years ago. This is the mature conclusion of the federal council of the churches of Christ, based on an exhaustive national survey of the prohibition situation and contained in the summary of its lengthy report.

"It may be said with a good deal of assurance," stated the report, "that many populous sections of the country would now reverse the verdict (prohibition) if they had the chance, but there is reason to believe most states, taken as a whole, would still vote affirmatively."

"The fact which must constantly be kept in the foreground is that a favorable encouraging trend (toward temperance) which began several years before 1920 has been reversed since that year—temporarily many believe. There is no little ground for hope that we are turning the corner but there is no basis for assurance."

POLICE CHIEF BEATEN AND TWO OTHERS HURT IN KLAN AND ANTI-KLAN RIOTING

Klanmen Attack Officer—Troopers Break Up Disorders

North Brookfield, Mass., Sept. 19.—Chief of Police Stephen Quill was beaten up, Patrolman William Downey was cut on the head by a bottle and an unknown klanman was shot in the leg by a police bullet, scores were bruised, two were arrested and a clergyman's son was thrown into a watering trough during a riot early today between several hundred members of the Ku Klux Klan and anti-klansmen.

The riot followed a meeting of the Klan on the farm formerly owned by Martin Bergin, ex-National league baseball catcher.

Enroute home in automobiles the klanmen came upon a crowd gathered from an automobile onto the chief, who fired three shots from his revolver. One of the shots struck a klanman in the leg and the man limped away with a cry.

Chief Quill was stripped of his revolver, nightstick and handcuffs and badly beaten.

Meanwhile the battle raged around the common, Patrolman William Downey, who attempted to stop it, was struck on the head by a bottle and seriously injured.

Many were injured in the fray but all went to their homes to have their wounds dressed.

As a climax to the battle, a squad of 25 state constabulary hurried up on motorcycles.

Flourishing revolvers the state troopers rode into the battling throng and hostilities soon ceased.

Eight rioters were taken into custody by the state policemen but only two were held. They gave these names:

Daniel Harrington and David Foote.

Klanmen had left the scene in automobiles with broken windshields and battered mud guards and the uninjured antis were talking it over on the edge of the common when a stranger appeared on the scene. The crowds on the common immediately roused the cry that he was a klanman and made a rush for him. The stranger a young man was dragged to a watering trough and thrown into the water.

Dragged, bruised and wet from the water tank by a policeman, the young man said he was Ward Moody, son of a Rhode Island clergyman. His father formerly preached here. He said he was not a member of the Klan and had been visiting friends here and was returning home.

Klan automobiles were stoned by boys on the outskirts of the town as the scene of the riot was left behind. The stone throwers were dispersed by a patrolman.

band concert. There were shouts from the crowd, and, according to the police, a klanman threw a tonic bottle into the throng. There were words between the klanmen and the antis and in a moment the battle was on.

The klanmen and the antis were hurling missiles when Chief of Police Quill hurried up. At the edge of the battle area some klanmen leaped from an automobile onto the chief, who fired three shots from his revolver. One of the shots struck a klanman in the leg and the man limped away with a cry.

Raindrops fell so hard during Friday evening's aquatic festivities, they bounced eight feet and were still soaking wet on the second bounce.

Before they had subsided everything was all wet. "You splash me and I'll splash you," said raindrops on South Detroit Street. As a result an automobile found deep water impassable under the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge. Flyvers crowded each other in the amateur pond.

Storm sewers were not expecting the rush and "standing room only" signs were hung out after the first gush. Before the storm had gushed itself out an enterprising citizen was taking orders for gondolas at Main and Detroit Streets.

The heavy rain aggravated it into a frenzy just about the time Xenia stores were about to discharge their evening's supply of perspiring humanity. Before they got home the biscuits were cold. Automobiles scurried for shelter and citizens rallied promiscuously in doorways.

The weather report for Friday said "partly cloudy." If Friday evening's sprinkle was an example of "partly cloudy" weather Xenians are hoping it doesn't cloud up and rain some day.

TOURIST MUST HAVE PLENTY OF CHANGE TO TRAVEL IN EUROPE

Akron, Sept. 19.—Want to know what to carry, beside a passport, when going to Europe? Let an Akron man just back from over there tell you.

Rev. Dr. Lloyd W. Douglas, pastor of the First Congregational Church here, was back today after a two month tour of Europe. Like Mark Twain, Rev. Mr. Lloyd was chiefly impressed with the tipping system in vogue across the sea.

"In many of the hill orchards, of Lawrence County, the crop can hardly exceed ten percent and some of the trees will not be picked.

"The fruit is small and almost devoid of color. A large percentage will not be suitable even for cider," West declared.

CONSIDERING TAX

Columbus, O., Sept. 19.—The proposal that the Ohio legislature enact a mortgage recording tax is under consideration today by the special legislative taxation Committee. This committee's advisory committee, comprising business men, is arranging to make a study with a view to determining inequalities of Ohio tax laws as related to net incomes of various industries.

XENIAN ENLISTS IN UNITED STATES NAVY

Harold Leamen, 558 Cincinnati Ave., enlisted in the United States Navy at the Dayton Recruiting Station, Friday morning. Leamen is a former army man and is now enlisted in the navy for four years.

He will be sent to the U. S. Navy Training station at the Great Lakes for three weeks. From there he will either be assigned to one of the trade schools or sent to the fleet, according to Arthur Argos, C. C. M., in charge of the Dayton Recruiting Station.

DARWIN IS DEAD

Cambridge, Eng., Sept. 19.—Sir Francis Darwin, son of Charles Robert Darwin, author of "The Origin of Species," died at his home here today.

BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE WHEN STRUCK BY LIGHTNING BOLT

Cow Killed By Bolt At E. V. Barnes Farm Near Alpha

A large frame barn on the E. V. Barnes farm, on the Bellbrook and Alpha Road, west of Alpha, was entirely destroyed by fire after being struck by lightning during the severe electrical and rain storm Friday evening about 6 o'clock.

Loss of the barn and contents is thought to amount to about $2,000, partially covered by insurance through the S. B. LeSourd insurance agency, this city.

The barn was struck during the severest part of the storm, and when the flames were discovered it was too late to make an attempt to save the structure or contents. A Ford automobile was entirely destroyed. Other contents included four tons of hay, crop of onions, chest of tools, farm tools, including plows, disks, harrows, harness, wagons and grain.

A cow that had sought shelter from the storm near the barn was struck by the same bolt that hit the barn and instantly killed. No other stock was lost.

Cribs and other buildings near the barn did not catch from the blaze. Mr. Barnes, who formerly operated a dairy in Xenia, is recovering from a severe injury to his eye, pierced by a cornstalk a few days ago and Mrs. Barnes was away from home at the time of the fire.

Flourishing revolvers the state troopers rode into the battling throng and hostilities soon ceased.

Eight rioters were taken into custody today by the state policemen but only two were held. They gave these names:

PHYSICIANS USE MANY MEANS TO RESTORE LIFE UNSUCCESSFULLY

Tiffin, O., Sept. 19.—Wilford Rahla, 12 year old son of Elmer Rahla, Toledo druggist, died here just before noon today after failing to regain consciousness following the administration of an anesthetic in the office of his uncle, Dr. E. E. Rahla.

The boy was to have his adenoids removed.

When the young patient was brought under the effects of the ether-chloroform anesthetic, it was discovered his condition was unsatisfactory. Physicians immediately began attempts to revive him but all their efforts were in vain. He was pronounced dead in an hour and a half.

Attempting to resuscitate the lad, physicians made use of a galvanic battery, adrenal injections, nitro-glycerine and a pulmotor which was secured at the local fire department.

Just before Wilford was placed under the anesthetic his six year old brother, Elmer Jr., was operated upon for removal of his adenoids. The same anesthetic—half ether and half chloroform—was used successfully.

Akron, Sept. 19.—Want to know what to carry, beside a passport, when going to Europe? Let an Akron man just back from over there tell you.

Rev. Dr. Lloyd W. Douglas, pastor of the First Congregational Church here, was back today after a two month tour of Europe. Like Mark Twain, Rev. Mr. Lloyd was chiefly impressed with the tipping system in vogue across the sea.

Here is what Dr. Douglas recommends all Europe-bound tourists should carry:

Change receptacles similar to those worn by streetcar conductors so that no time will be lost from sightseeing in fishing for centimes, centavos, kopeks or pfennigs in pockets.

Social secretaries to listen to and catalog the tales of woe of the unemployed.

WANTED NOTORIETY

Columbus, O., Sept. 19.—That he wanted "some notoriety" is the explanation given police today by Charles Derman for his recent incorrect report that thugs robbed him of $35 while he was making his rounds as a watchman here a few days ago.

A driving rainstorm accompanied by high wind, which at times almost reached cyclonic velocity, late Friday afternoon, caused an unestimated amount of damage throughout the county.

Damage to crop yields was certain and telephone communication to Wilmington was completely cut off for a period of twelve hours.

Eleven telephone poles were down and traffic on the Dayton and Xenia Pike was slightly impaired by obstructing poles and lines.

TENTATIVE FIGURES SHOW REDUCTION OF 20 CENTS FOR 1926

City Cut Provides Decrease
—School Rate Is Higher

Xenia's new tax rate for 1926 will be $26 per $1,000 property valuation or $2.60 per $100 property valuation, according to tentative figures prepared by County Auditor R. O. Wead.

The new rate must meet with the approval of the County Budget Commission of which County Auditor Wead is secretary, and the state tax commission. The rate is a decrease of twenty cents from last year's levy of $26.20.

The only increase in rate was that of seventeen cents granted to the Xenia city schools over the $10.75 school rate of last year. This decrease was made possible by the thirty-seven cent reduction of the Xenia city rate for next year. Xenia's

SEVERS TONGUE

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. King, Chestnut Street, have received word that their granddaughter, Katherine, seven-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. McConnell, Detroit, Mich., almost severed her tongue when she fell several days ago.

The child was carrying her baby sister, when she tripped and fell. The baby was uninjured.

Supplementary to the method of treatment advocated for strengthening the eyes by improving the general health and nervous tone, the practice of eye-massage has considerable value. The beneficial effects of massage for all parts of the body is universally known. It has been employed for centuries as an invaluable aid to the successful treatment of many forms of disease. It accelerates the circulation of the blood and has a tonic effect upon the nerves. "The professional beauty," so-called woman whose sole object in life is to be beautiful—lays the greatest stress upon the value of massage as a preservative of health and beauty of face and form, and one of the most important duties of the professional athletic trainers is to rub and knead the bodies of their charges. Why, then, should massage not be of equal value in the treatment of the eyes? Of course it is difficult for one to massage the eyes as one would a muscle, but unquestionably they can be strengthened and beautified by the massage process. Massage of the body accelerates the circulation of venous blood, replaced exercise to a certain extent by assisting the system in the elimination of impurities that would have a deleterious effect upon the general health if allowed to remain. Massage of the eyes, of course, would have a similar effect, accelerating the circulation of blood in the organs of sight, thereby strengthening and beautifying them. Of the many devices on the market for applying the massage treatment to the eyes, many no doubt are valuable. The chief advantage, if any, of mechanical appliances for this purpose is the suction process which they employ. Exhaust cups are placed over the eyes and the blood is by this means drawn in increased quantities to the parts. But the process of massage with the fingers effects practically the same results, as the blood is forced along by the gradual change of pressure, whereupon new blood flows in to replace that which has been forced along. Press finger and thumb around socket of eye, pressing as tightly as possible on eyeball in endeavoring to massage the eye muscles.

CLUB WOMEN TO RE-LIVE FANTASIES

Remember when you were a little boy and the tales of the Arabian Nights wove a land of mystery for you? How you delighted in the adventures of Sinbad the Sailor, Aladdin and the Forty Thieves and other heroes of magic mystery?

Members of the Junior Women's Clubs appreciate the joys the Arabian tales brought to them in childhood days and are planning to re-dye the stories of the by-gone centuries. With the opening of the new club year October sixth, a program that bids fair to out-rival all previous calendars will hold the attention of the club group.

Through the cleverness of the members of the program committee, Miss Margaret E. Steele, Mrs. H. C. Messenger and Mrs. Ella L. Hume, club members will revel in tales of the mystery land. Vivid little calendars, entitled "Our Magic Carpet to India," or "A Modern Arabian Nights," have been issued for the club year.

Each meeting of the club is called "night" and the program of each gathering will deal with various tales of the Arabian land. "We enroll our magic carpet" is the title of the introduction meeting, which will be featured by a talk by Professor N. S. Chatterjee, of Antioch College, who will talk on "The Gate to India," or "Open Sesame." This first meeting will be held October 6, at the home of Mrs. J. D. Steele, and will be in the nature of a club tea. Mrs. W. H. McGervey will furnish music during the forepart of the afternoon.

"What we see from our magic carpet" will be the subject of the fifteenth "night" October 20, when club members will gather at the home of Mrs. Graham Bryson. Mrs. W. R. Harner will read a paper "A Bird's-eye View of India." Mrs. J. D. Steele will conduct the members on a "flying trip over Ceylon."

Queen Scheherazade's first tales will be told the twenty-ninth "night" at the home of Mrs. E. R. Bryant, November 3. Mrs. D. D. Jones will read "The Great Moguls." Mrs. M. L. Wolf will give a reading "Abkar's Dream" and Mrs. B. R. McClellan will tell the story of "The Flora and Fauna of India."

Mrs. C. E. Fisher will be hostess the forty-third "night," November 17. Mrs. S. O. Hale will give a paper on "Hinduism" and Mrs. A. C. Messenger will present a paper on "The Castle System."

"The first voyage of Sinbad" will be the topic of the fifty-seventh "night," December 1, at the home of Mrs. Charles Adair. Mrs. Steele Pouage will take for the subject of her paper, "Buddha and His Creeds" and "Benares and the River Ganges" will be discussed by Mrs. C. P. Proudfit.

Kipling's "Christmas in India" will be given by Mrs. C. P. Proudfit the seventy-first "night," December 15, at the home of Mrs. Mary Little Dice. Mrs. Charles Kinsey will read a paper on "Women of India."

Mrs. Arthur Perrill will be hostess January 15, when Mrs. H. D. Smith will read a paper on "The Incursion of Islam." Mrs. C. E. Fisher's paper will be entitled "Swadeshi."

"Homes, Hovels and Palaces," of India will be discussed by Mrs. Charles Adair, at the meeting with Mrs. Steele Pouage, January 19. Miss Helen Boyd will take for her topic, "Schools and Universities."

More tales will be told at the home of Mrs. Reed Madden February 2, when Mrs. Meda Gowdy will give a paper on "Architectural Beauties" and Mrs. R. H. Kingsbury will tell of the Taj Mahal.

As another phase of life in India, Mrs. S. M. McKay will tell of the art of that country in a paper to be presented at the home of Mrs. Proudfit, February 16. Mrs. E. R. Bryant will tell of the textiles and metal work of India.

Mrs. Perrill will give a program of native Indian music at the home of Mrs. Mary L. Dice, March 2. Mrs. Reed Madden will tell of the language and dialects at this meeting.

Mrs. H. D. Smith will be hostess March 16, when two more interesting papers will be presented. Mrs. Graham Bryson will tell myths of the Hindus and Buddhists and Mrs. W. W. Weaver will come from Cleveland to tell "The Philosophy of the upanishads."

Mrs. Robert Bryson will give a paper on "Modern Literature" March 30 at the home of Mrs. M. L. Wolf. Mrs. McGervey will tell of "Rabindranath Tagore."

The April thirteenth meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. C. Messenger, when Miss Floris Nisbet will read a paper on "Indian Nationality" and Mrs. W. C. Craig will tell of "British Rule in India."

The last meeting, April 27, will be held at the home of Mrs. S. M. McKay when Mrs. Wolf will give "Passage to India," and Mrs. S. D. Fess will discuss "India in World Politics."

The programs are illustrated with various scenes in India and are completed with the names of the club members. Mrs. Mary L. Dice is president this year; Mrs. M. L. Wolf, vice-president and Mrs. Gowdy Williamson, secretary-treasurer.

Miss Irene Hawes, of Yellow Springs, is receiving a visit from her sister, Mrs. Murdock, and daughter Irene, of Paducah, who will remain for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Anderson and Dr. and Mrs. George Davis have been spending the week at Russell's Point at the Davis cottage. Dr. Davis has returned to Xenia to resume his practice.

The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted

By GERTRUDE S. de WENTWORTH-JAMES

SYNOPSIS

Eileen Mannerling is particularly proud and happy when she wakes this morning for it is her son Bob's twenty-first birthday. She has every reason for pride in both him and her husband, John, who is District Attorney. Her husband is still her lover. When he, too, wakes, he compliment her on her beauty—"the prettiest bride that ever came out of Kentucky," he calls her, and both rejoice over possession of a fine, manly boy.

She laughed outright. The thought of John Mannerling, who was forever stalking absent by her dearest friends with never a nod of recognition, posing as a judge of feminine pulchritude was amusing. But she managed to display appropriate apprehension.

"What a speech, John? I hope you are not in the habit of exercising this marvelous judgment of which you are so proud?"

He received her mock alarm with the careless indifference of a man with a clear conscience.

"With you here at home, Eileen, it's not worth the trouble. With the queen of all beauties presiding over my house, why bother about others."

"But the years," she said gently. "The years have left some marks. I'm not as young as I once was, John."

"Nonsense," he burst forth with conviction. "You don't look a day older than the day you left Louisville as a bride."

Back flashed her thoughts to the scene in the station. The throng of excited friends, the ever present force and strength which gave character to his handsome face.

Eileen reached over and patted his hand.

"You decided for me,—you knew I wanted you,—needed you."

"The old automobile in which I made the trip would look like an ark now. Tire trouble,—ignition trouble,—get out and get under. And the fear that old lawyer Johnson in whose hands I had left the case would get a chance to try the case and get credit for my months of hard work. Lord,—what a ride!"

"But you came to Bob and me." Drawing closer, Eileen rested her head upon his shoulder and when he stroked her hair raised her lips for his kiss. So they sat, oblivious to their surroundings, in the fullness of their mutual affection living over again those bygone days.

In the midst of their meditations, Eileen started and sat up.

"Water," she cried, "the water," and with a wild look made for the bath room as fast as she could go, with John at her heels.

"A minute more and we would have had a flood," she explained as she turned from the brimming tub.

"You turned on the water and forgot it? I thought something terrible had happened to —"

"Maw!" A masculine voice of force and power sounded from the room they had just quitted.

Heedless of his husband, Eileen made for the door. In the center of the bed room stood a handsome youth, apparently driven to the point of desperation by the bow tie he had been attempting to tie.

"Bob," cried Eileen, her face alight with tenderness. "What is the matter, dear?"

"My tie,—I've had such a time with it mother. I can't get the blame thing to go right."

"Well, he took advantage of it to the fullest degree until he got to

GEORGE H. SMITH IS CONTRACTOR TO MAKE DREAMS COME TRUE

Make that "dream home" come true!

What romance there is in creating a home! Long before the walls actually begin to rise, you can have the thrill of building the home in imagination, let it rise before you—the pleasures of anticipation—the satisfaction of knowing, when you begin to build, that you have provided everything that you have made your home, in fact, the "dream home."

It means much to you to have your home right, for you probably will build but once in your lifetime.

But the most important factor to be considered is the selection of a contractor that will carry out your desires in making it a "dream home." George H. Smith is an expert general contractor and will be glad to confer with you on estimates, the type of your home, on the kind of finish, the materials for its construction, the interior arrangement and other details.

TAXI LINE DOES BIG SERVICE IN TODAY'S PROGRESSIVENESS

We often wonder what the cushing business man of today would accomplish if he had to depend on horse-drawn vehicles in his work. How far would the world have progressed if the motor vehicle had not been invented?

Suppose today, with the growth of cities and the need of rapid transportation, that the Automobile was still a day-dream and that horses were still one of the main means of travel. The automobile has played a large part in the progress of the past century and the business man of today owes a large debt to its inventor.

Many important business deals have been consummated, and big transactions transpired through the promptness of the Hale Taxi. Trains are met without delay or worry and passengers carefully taken to their destination by means of this service. Taxi lines are one of the main arteries in city business life and the Hale line is the oldest and one of the most reliable in the city.

ALL MATERIAL FOR BUILDING SHOULD BE OF THE VERY HIGHEST

If you bought a suit with the idea of wearing it at least one season, if not two, would you buy the cheapest poorest quality of material? Would you consider it a good investment to spend your money for the smallest return?

In a more important business investment, the building of a home, would you choose shoddy material and expect to have your residence last throughout the years?

In selecting the best of material, which is a primary factor in home building, you should consider material to be used from the ground to the roof. No matter how high-priced the other material is, if the foundation is of poor construction your house is a failure.

Sand, gravel and cement blocks from the Horney pit, West Second Street, are of the finest grade that builders can choose in construction work. Ask any builder in the city what he thinks of Horney material and he'll say "It's of the best."

CONSULT WITH YOUR CONTRACTOR BEFORE YOU START TO BUILD

Why are the homes of today better looking than they were a decade or a score of years ago?

What's an easy question. If you have ever built a home you will know and anyone that has can tell you. It is because more care and judgment is exercised in home-building than in previous times, and because more judicious thought is needed to keep in line with the advance of the period.

It is because the contractor plans every detail and carries out your desires of a "perfect home" and brings into play every factor of his workmanship.

W. H. Peterson, Xenia contractor, has been planning homes for years and many a handsome Xenia home is a monument to his care and craftsmanship. Don't build any kind of a house, consult with Mr. Peterson to gain the right lines and the most attractive home for your money.

Some long winded after-dinner speaker has aptly put it that about the only difference between a rut and a grave is that the grave is deeper and longer. Give the rut time and it will grow into a grave.

Tadpole lived in ruts before Robinson Crusoe got out of bananas. They get their mail at the same address today. Are you a tadpole? Then rub the mud out of your eyes.

Jack London wasn't satisfied with driving a coal wagon. He unhitched his team and hitched his wagon to a star. Today his stories can be found in magazines in almost every paper baller in the country.

Consider the soap salesman who didn't like the taste of the stuff he was selling. He got some of it in his eyes and it opened them up. So he went to Chicago and put out a product that didn't taste bad and which people wouldn't get in their eyes. That product is chewing gum. Today William Wrigley has left his mark under every church bench in churches all over the globe.

Andrew Carnegie didn't like the dot and dash system. He made a dash out of the rut. Today his name dots libraries all over the country. Have you lost your penknife? Get busy on the old bird.

Look at Firpo! Yesterday a rough, South American lad, Today worth thousands. While other men were beating their wives, Firpo was knocking his fellowmen cold.

Do you beat your wife? What gain is there? Firpo let Dempsey chase him around a ring a few times. There were ropes so he couldn't fall out. He made a fortune. Don't beat your wife. There is more money in prize-fighting.

The greatest difference between a cow and a calf is that the cows is larger. Give the calf plenty of bran and time and it will be a cow.

It's time to snap out of it.

CITY TITLE SERIES

WILL BE RESUMED AT WASHINGTON PARK

The Reserves and Merchants will meet in the third game of the city series Sunday afternoon at Washington Park at 2:30 o'clock provided rain does not interfere as it did last week.

This game is important to both clubs. In the event the Reserves win they feel sure they can again beat the Merchants at Dickinson Park as they did two weeks ago and if they do this they will be city champs. The Merchants lay their defeat to the rotors fielding and are certain, after a layoff of a week they can beat the Reserves Sunday and gain the edge in the series.

A pitcher's battle is looked for in the event that Harve Reese, Dayton flinger and Asa Jones or Gaston Lewis clashes.

The Reserves will present the following lineup: Cain, 1b; E. Leahy, 2b; Garrison, 3b; Early ss; P. Fuller, D. Fuller and Stony' Fuller in the gardens while Reeses and Cyphers will pitch and Red Randall will catch. The Merchants will have Warner at first, A. Rice at second, Todd Rice at short and Tuck at the far corner. J. Jones, Cunningham and Porter will be in the outfield while Thompson will catch and Asa Jones and Gaston Lewis will pitch.

The game it is hoped will start on time as many fans have been disappointed about the starting time of the game which is scheduled to get under way at 2:30 with competent officials in charge.

COUNTY APPRAISAL MAY BE POSTPONED UNTIL 1926 IS SAID

Greene County property owners may be forced to abandon all thoughts of obtaining a re-appraisal of real estate in the county this year it was indicated Saturday.

Although no such announcement has been made, it is unofficially said that auditors of the various counties will receive letters within a week with the information that the state-wide re-appraisal has been postponed until 1926.

Cause of the coming postponement is laid to necessity of giving complete attention to county budgets.

As a result of the Vorys budget law recently effective over the state, all counties were nearly seven weeks behind time in completing their budgets.

A majority of counties in the state must devise ways and means to meet larger running expenses with only a restricted amount of ready money, and several have suggested that the state tax commission devote its time to the interests of county budgets and let the appraisal project "slide" for another year.

TRIALS OF DAYTON MAN POSTPONED

At the request of his counsel, Attorney F. L. Johnson trials of William A. Keller, Dayton, on two separate charges of operating an automobile while intoxicated, have been continued until Monday and Tuesday in Justice of the Peace and Probate Courts respectively.

Keller is at liberty under a total of $700 bail.

He was arrested last Monday by Special Deputy Sheriff Oliver Belden following his automobile collision with a party of tourists from Pennsylvania at Trebein. He gave bond before J. E. Jones in Justice of the Peace Court.

A few hours later the Dayton motorist was again arrested by Belden after he had narrowly missed driving in front of an approaching train at Trebein, and again gave appearance bond, this time before Judge S. C. Wright in Probate Court.

FINED ON LIQUOR CHARGE IN COURT

A fine of $100 and costs was imposed upon Harry Angel, of near Selma, by Judge S. C. Wright in Probate Court Friday afternoon when he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor.

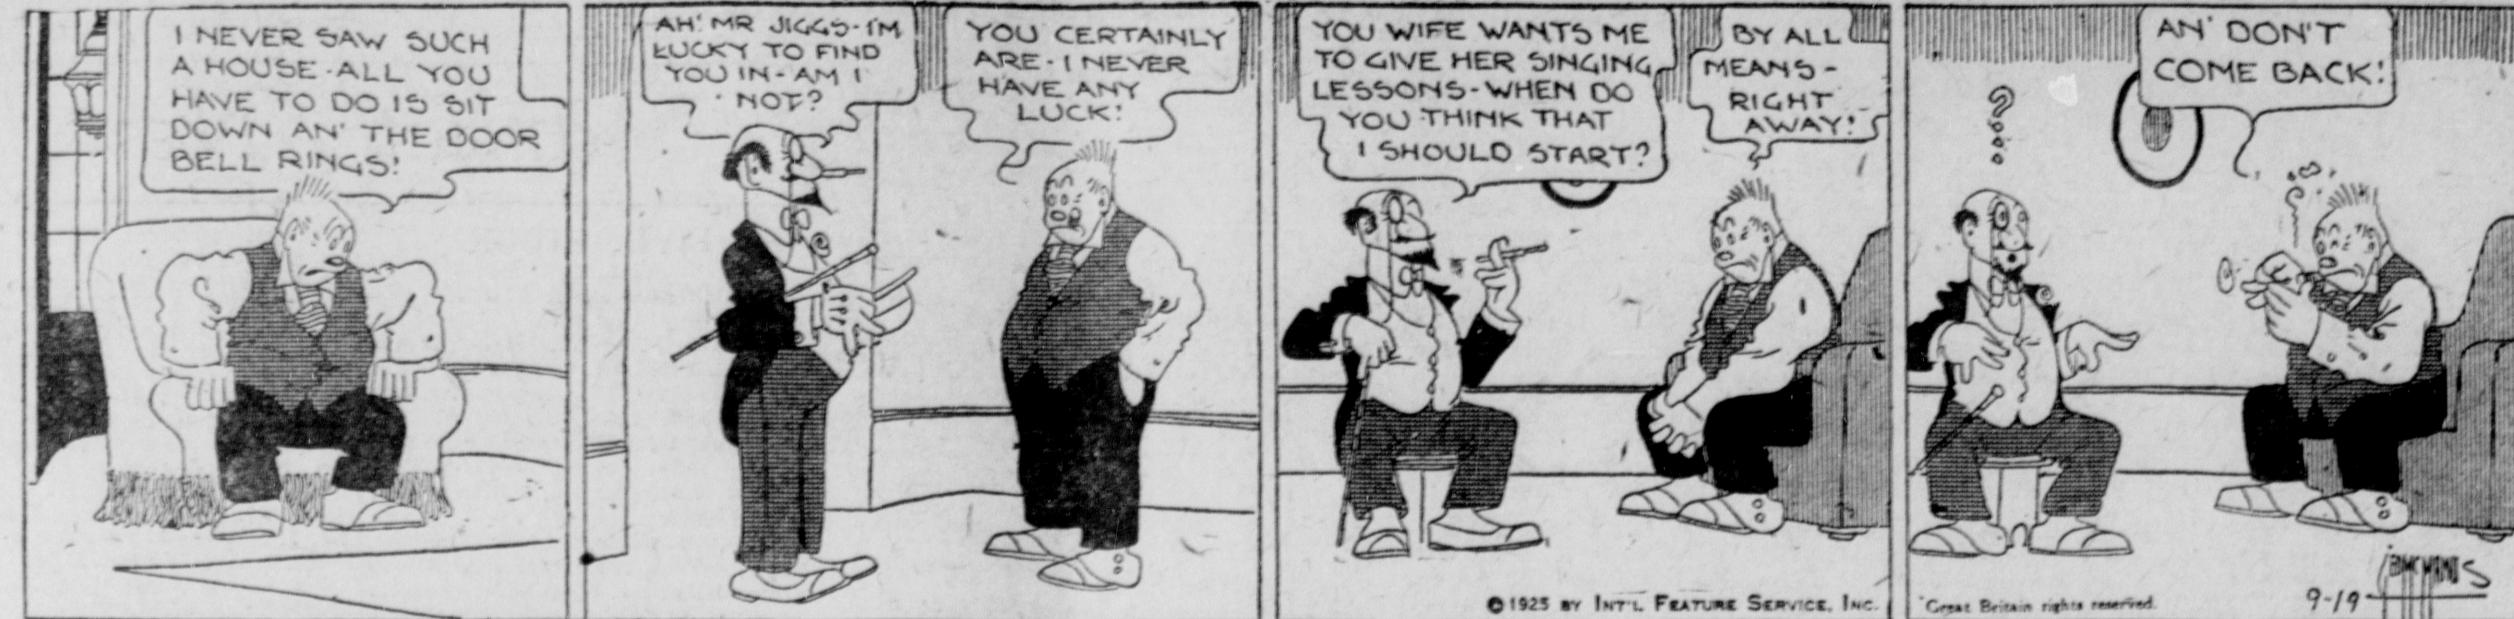

Angel was arrested Wednesday night by Sheriff Morris Sharp and Deputy Sheriff George Spencer. The officers raided his cellar and confiscated a still, several barrels of mash and three gallons of liquor. Angel was arrested when he returned home in the evening.

FORD PATHFINDERS STOP AT FAIRFIELD

After the storm abated the fliers left for Columbus, where they were entertained by the Chamber of Commerce at dinner.

AFTER LEAVING THE HOSPITAL

Was Weak and Miserable. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Auger's Strength

Lowell, Massachusetts. — "I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books that you send around and I felt very good after I had taken a couple of bottles of it. I had been in the Hospital and felt pretty well at first but I went down to nothing. I was weak and had to lie in bed almost all day. I had dizzy and faint spells, pains in my back and lower parts and was so nervous I could not bear my children around. I hope the Vegetable Compound helps other women as it did me. I do all my own work now and feel so well. I have told my friends about it and my sister and my aunt." — Mrs. OLIVE AUGER, 19 Howard Street Lowell, Massachusetts.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 out of every 100 of the replies say, "Yes" and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you.
